Over 50,000 Arizonans who need it the most stand to lose their healthcare come Jan. 1.

Governor Brewer has a plan to save their coverage and you can help.

If Arizona does not move to expand Medicaid coverage, more than 50,000 Arizonans will be dropped from their healthcare at the end of 2013. Regardless of their health condition, people who need help the most will not receive it. People with cancer will no longer receive treatment. Those waiting for life-saving transplants will not get them.

But you can help make sure that doesn't happen. Urge your Legislator to support the Governor's Medicaid plan that will:

- Cover approximately 57,000 Arizonans by restoring coverage to childless adults and parents with incomes up to $15,000 (138% of Federal Poverty Level)
- Cost nothing to the state as special assessments on hospitals will cover the costs
- Free up money in the state's budget for education, public safety, and growing the economy
